

Life in the Flight Lane

Motivation for writing the book

While enjoying her job as a flight attendant, Sharon has noticed that no one seems to pay much attention to the safety features card or the safety demonstration on board the aircraft. Many people take safety with an air of lightness and some folks will even talk out loud during the demonstration. Leading her to conclude that people don't care about learning what to do in an emergency. Most people would rather think that nothing bad would ever happen. Begging the question, will we know what to do in the unlikely event of an emergency?

What this book will contain

This book contains down to earth examples of real life emergencies and how the elements of the safety features card have a lot more to do with our lives with our feet on the ground than just the few moments of being up in the air.

Who is this book targeted to?

This book is targeted to those who fly all the time and have never picked up a Safety Features Card.

It is also written for those who may have only flown a few times in their lives, but life is flying by them.

Lastly, this book is written to reach the people who have promised themselves that they will never darken the doors of an aircraft as long as they have their mental capacity about them.
